What Do Centralites Do?

Come with us on a tour to see what Centralites do. We will show you who Centralites are, how they learn, and the fun they have.

We will look in on clubs and other activities such as annual and newspaper staffs. Our academic section shows how classroom activity goes on. You will see students participate in sports and other activities. Social life will be reviewed and of course, you will meet us, Centralites.

Open house, in addition to our yearbook, gives parents and friends a closer view of the school at work and thus, they become better acquainted with our educational system.

We are proud to live in an ever progressing community; one that is interested in us as students as well as citizens.

Thus you will see what Centralites do.

Most Central students start out each day by riding the school bus from home to school.

Confabs, Intermissions, Lunch Lines

The study hall at noon provides a place for study or just passing time.

Hungry students wait patiently in the long lunch line. This is a very familiar sight.

A large group almost always assembles at the bulletin board at noon. Students discuss up to the minute topics which appear on the board.

Illustrate Everyday Routine

A familiar sight between classes is the rush of students from one room to another.

Among the fashion notes of Central teenagers were different styles of hairdos including DA's, ponytails, and flattops.

Knee-high bobby socks and Bermuda socks were popularized by the girls worn with flats, loafers, rock'n roll, or saddle shoes.

Sweat shirts with Greyhounds printed on the front rated high with the freshmen through seniors.

Other sights were the between classes rush, students crowded at lockers, and the long lunch line.

The lockers are a frequent meeting place where students discuss ball games and dates.

The St. Luke's Evangelical and Reformed Church is one of the many churches in the community which is attended by Central students.

Janice Liechty and Lois Steury give curb service at a local drive-in restaurant.

Church Youth Groups, Jobs, and

Elementary and high school students alike enjoyed the hula hoop. Joan Yoder demonstrates at her home.

A typical scene where partygoers "linger awhile" is the table with many good things to eat.

A steady couple, Dave Isch and Sue Pageler, enjoy the surroundings of Carol, David, and Joyce Haggard's party.

Sue Pageler, Maran Zimmerman, and Marcia Zimmerman chat over refreshments at the party.

Outside of school activities, some Centralites have jobs at local business establishments.

Attending church and working with church youth groups occupy some of the students' time.

Centralites also enjoy going to and giving parties with friends.

Parties Occupy Leisure Time

David Haggard, Junior Isch, and other guests take out a few moments for Coke and 7-Up.

CEN-TRAILS KING AND QUEEN'S COURT--Arlene Zimmerman, Alan Habegger, Mary Dick, Max Egley, Larry Zurcher, crownbearer, Queen, Carol Haggard, King, Tom Heyerly, Barbara Miller, flower girl, Jeannie Smith, Larry Foreman, Wanda Neuenschwander, Dave Isch.

Special Occasions Rate

Barbara Miller carried the roses and Larry Zurcher carried the crown.

A very big event of the year was the crowning of seniors Carol Haggard, Queen and Tom Heyerly, King of the student body.

The crowning of the king and queen highlighted the A. C.--Berne ball game. Candidates for the crown paraded across the gym floor under the light of a spotlight . . . in dark surroundings. The crowning took place on the stage decorated with a spruce-covered arbor and red poinsettias.

The first eight grades helped lighten the holiday season when they presented the P.T.A. Christmas program.

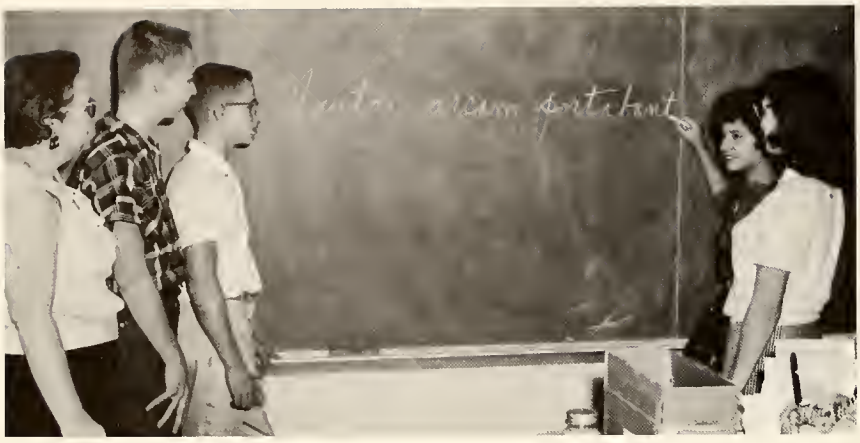
The Sunshine sweetheart banquet was held Valentines Day in the school cafeteria. On this occasion girls invited their dates and dressed formally. Entertainment was provided by Miss Irene Myers who has traveled all over the world.

In the grade school Christmas program some of the students decorate a large Christmas card (above) and also worship the Christ Child (below).

High with Centralites

The head table--Carol Heller, Glen Stucky, Mrs. Stucky, Miss Irene Myers, Flo Brandt, Mrs. Herman Frantz, Mr. Frantz, Mrs. Hugh Tate, Mr. Tate.

Sunshine girls and their dates attend the Sunshine sweetheart banquet held Valentines Day in the school cafeteria.



Mrs. Stucky, Reggie Welch, Duane Arnold, and Rosalyn Mishler watch as Carmen Quinones translates English words to Latin.

Latin and English Provide

Mr. Sprunger shows Jerry Gerber the correct way to spell a word.

Many Centralites enrolled in English and Latin this year.

Latin students, under the instruction of Mrs. Stucky, enjoyed many interesting discussions. Translating held new interests for each member of the class.

Mr. Sprunger's English Class studied expression through writing, sentence structure, and vocabulary.

Mr. Sprunger, Mr. Shoup, and Miss Beavers taught English 9, 10, and 11 respectively.

Marvin Mann asks Mr. Sprunger a question about verb usage. Susan Helmrich, Judy Bercot, and Dennis Arnold profit from his answer.

3 1833 03093 2781

Kathleen Adler, Phyllis Biberstein, Linda Reber, and Brenda Sommer do work in filing while Mrs. Archbold stands by to check their work.

Firm Foundations for Business Courses

Business education courses include typing, office practice, bookkeeping, and shorthand. These classes open the doors to many profitable positions in different lines of work.

Teaching these courses are Mr. Miller, general business; Mrs. Archbold, shorthand, bookkeeping, and office practice; Mr. Fruth, typing; and Mr. Frantz, bookkeeping.

Mr. Fruth shows Larry Habegger the correct form for typing a manuscript.

Mrs. Archbold explains to John Sommer, Carol McKean, and Dennis Fuelling the correct procedure for completing the general journal.

Bill Kohli, David Hamilton, Mervin Parrish, and Jerry Rowden do mechanical drawing in Mr. Collier's freshman shop class.

Vocational Courses

Rosanne Lautzenheiser, Susan Frank, and Becky Collins prepare the ingredients for a cobbler while Mrs. Neilsen helps Jane Jennings with the filling in the eighth grade home ec. class.

"Learning by doing" makes vocational classes some of the more interesting subjects.

Homemaking is interesting and rewarding as we learn better ways to sew, cook, arrange homes, and care for children.

The enthusiasm displayed in agricultural classes shows us "How to keep them down on the farm" by the study of soil and crop and livestock management. Farm shop adds a knowledge of how to use spare time on the farm.

Mr. Watson, agriculture instructor, gives pointers to Gary Workinger, Ronnie Schwartz, John Ross, and Forest Strickler on swine judging.

Students in Mrs. Archbold's freshman physical education class do exercises as a warm-up before the game of basketball they will play.

Essential in Modern Era

The ability to get along as a team is not an easy task, but at A.C.H.S. we have an opportunity to learn through our well-developed physical education classes.

The freshman and sophomore boys and girls are enrolled in a required physical education class while the upperclassmen keep active with intramural sports. At the head of the physical education classes are Mr. Fruth, Mr. Miller, Mr. Archbold, and Mr. Stork.

Our driver's training classes help us to be skillful, courteous drivers, and teach us how to operate a car. Mr. Stork teaches driver's education.

Dian Baumgartner, Carolyn Yake, Denny Mertz, and Ron Maines listen as Mr. Stork explains the function of each part of the car in driver's training class.

Palmer Urick, Lana McBride, Jack Wulliman, and Sandy Sanders of the eleventh grade chemistry class learn from Mr. Allspaw's explanation the process of water distillation.

Valences, Theories Test Mental Abilities

Mr. Watson asks Julie Sanders and Janice Ringger to name some of the leaves of Indiana in the freshman biology class.

Biology classes, made up of freshmen, collected insects and disected fish and grasshoppers. Mr. Watson and Mr. Stork headed these classes.

Chemistry class, taught by Mr. Allspaw, experimented with many different acids and gases and also learned to formulate and balance equations.

Diana Kershner, Arlen Gerber, and Carolyn Andrews watch as Mr. Haggard locates on the map a country which the world history class is studying.

Social Studies Make for Better Citizenship

History is a ceaselessly flowing stream, ever widening and deepening its course. History includes the survey of the whole life of man in the past, as revealed by documents, archeological relics, and all other "sources" which may have shed light on history.

Two groups of social studies include history, the science of the way people act, and government, the study of making rules and providing services that help people live together.

Sophomores were instructed in history by Mr. Sprunger, Mr. Haggard, and Mr. Shoup. Mr. Shoup also taught government and sociology to seniors.

Mr. Shoup explains initiative and referendum to Evan Yoder, Olin Moeschberger, Carol Helmrich, and Georgianna Essex of the senior government class by means of an illustration on the board.

The fifth grade instrumental class listens as Mr. Don Gerig, instructor, tells them how to count time. Training such as this helps in music organizations in high school.

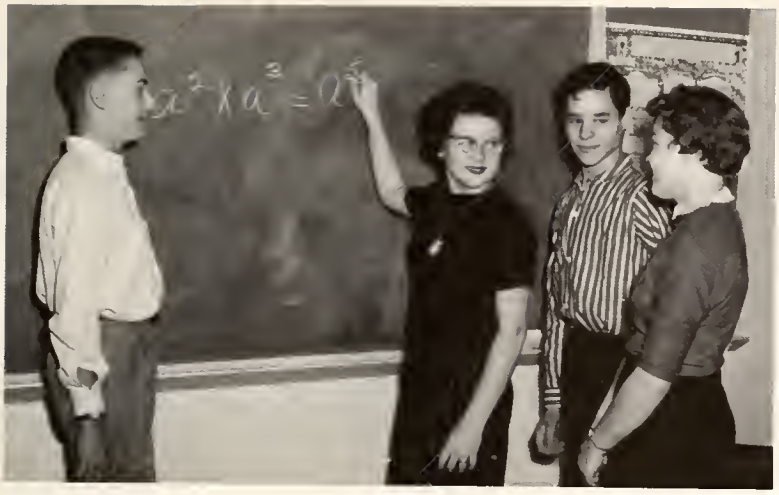
Music, Art Develop Poise, Self-expression

Irene Merriman and David Haggard use a straight edge to draw stenciled letters while Mr. Feasel shows Jeanne Kaehr some different color combinations.

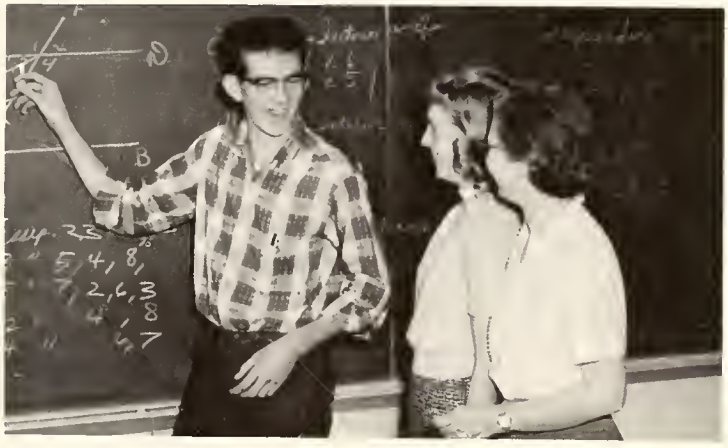
Art and music provide appreciation and new interest to Centralites. These are subjects which you can take with you after graduation.

The ability to create artistic designs gives a person the satisfaction of using his own skills. Teaching art is Mr. Feasel.

Music students also have active schedules with band and chorus. Mr. Don Gerig and Mr. Leon Gerig are the directors of this department.



Alice Steiner tells Ronnie Zimmerman, Joe Cancilla, and Barbara Carver how she got the answer to her first year algebra problem.



Jim Bilderback proves to Miss Beavers and Joy Yoder in geometry class that line CD is parallel to line AB.

Theorems, Equations Wrestle Mental Aptitudes

Olin Moeschberger from the advanced algebra class agrees that making the x's and y's add up is not always easy. Miss Beavers, teacher, checks a piece of work which he has just finished.

Directed by Amzie Miller and Miss Lucile Beavers, the freshman class chose either algebra or general mathematics.

Miss Beavers led the sophomores through a very interesting course in geometry.

Advanced algebra, a required course for college math majors, was offered to interested juniors and seniors.

P. T. A. in Action

The P.T.A. chili supper attracted many Adams Central patrons. The supper was held before the Monroeville--A.C. basketball game.

To the students of Adams Central:

Today is yours to do with what you will. Today at Central will lay the foundation of all your tomorrows. What you do today determines your happiness in all those tomorrows.

I hope you have learned many things in the art of living. In addition to your assignments, I hope you have learned to be a little more kind and thoughtful of others--to be cheerful and enthusiastic--and that happiness grows a little more each time it is divided with others. If you have learned this, even in a small measure, the year 1958-59 has been a success.

May the best of everything be yours.

Seniors —

In September, 1955, numbering in the mid-fifties, we entered Central High and wondered what was lying ahead. Labeled "green freshmen" we bowed to, and carried the books of the mighty seniors.

As sophomores in 1956 we sold stationery to start funds for our senior trip. Several parties also highlighted the year.

Our junior year kept us busy selling magazines to increase our funds. The class play was much work, but fun for all.

The senior year was by far the busiest. Selling concessions and magazines, sponsoring a skating party, and ordering our gowns and invitations held new thrills for each class member. Then came graduation with a solemn note, climaxing four years of fun and hard work.

VARSITY BASKETBALL TEAM--Dick Steiner, Claude Striker, Max Egley, Dave Isch, Larry Foreman, Bill Hoffman, Jim Brown, Alan Habegger, Tom Heyerly. KNEELING: Coach, Amzie Miller.

Keen Competition Keeps

Student Managers, Junior Isch, Jerry Schwartz, David Houck, and Garry Bluhm check percentages at half-time.

A promising varsity of nine, the Greyhounds lost to Geneva in the first game of the season.

A six-game winning spree sparked activity for the Greyhounds and Coach Miller. However, a five-game slump followed the County Tourney. The final game of the tourney was a hard-fought battle for the Greyhounds, losing to Hartford in the final minutes.

The Greyhounds with 10 wins and 9 losses, thus far, have slightly better than a .500 percentage.

Dave Isch and Larry Foreman try to tip the ball into the goal.

Greyhounds Running

The Greyhounds watch intently as Tom Heyerly jumps in a field goal attempt.

Dave Isch jumps as teammates wait to get the tip.

PEP CLUB: Appearing in red and white at each home basketball game, the pep club helped boost enthusiasm.

Boost School Spirit, Team Morale

"We want the Greyhounds!"

This has been a favorite cheer at Central for the past few years, and always gets the crowd yelling. That may not seem like a hard job, but ask any one of our able cheerleaders, and she will tell you that it isn't easy to get the "gang" cheering, especially when the chips are down.

Central's pep club wore red skirts and trousers, white shirts and blouses, small red megaphones, and red and gray beanies.

The expressions on faces of the pep club members say that the Greyhounds have scored two more points.

SECOND TEAM CHEERLEADERS: Rosemary Schlickman, Judy Yoder, Linda Hirschy, Sandy Strickler.

Jr. Hi Teams Meet Rugged Competition

Central's junior high team played a stiff schedule of 22 games and won approximately half of them. The Greypups were coached by Ron Stork.

At the helm of the freshman team was John Fruth. The frosh competed in 14 contests and a 4-way tourney.

Amzie Miller coached the second team through 20 games. The team had a little better the .500 percentage.

JUNIOR HIGH CHEERLEADERS--Gloria Zimmerman, Carol Schwartz, Carolyn Hart, Barbara Wolf.

CROSS COUNTRY TEAM--FRONT ROW: L. Decker, J. Lambert, M. Egley, C. Strickler, D. Steiner. BACK ROW: Coach John Fruth, A. Habegger, C. Striker, B. Hoffman, J. Brown, J. Hirschy, R. Schlickman.

An intramural clash goes on between two freshman teams.

The 1958 cross country season is now in the record books. The Greyhounds had a successful season, winning ten meets and losing three. Our team placed second in both the EIC and County meets. They also ranked eleventh of the twenty-six sectional teams.

Dick Steiner placed fifth in the County meet and tenth in the EIC meet. Alan Habegger placed eighth in the County and EIC meets.

Lettermen were Alan Habegger, Bill Hoffman, Roger Schlickman, Joe Lambert, Max Egley, Dick Steiner, Larry Decker, Jim Brown, Claude Striker, Jerry Hirschy, and Clayton Strickler.

Intramurals Develop Fair Play

A couple of junior boys squabble for the ball.

Larry Urick jumps to get control of the ball.

Practice, Hard Work

David Isch, batting champion, throws a practice swing at one of the local games.

Adams Central's baseball team, not handicapped by the loss of seniors, showed their fans how well organized and well trained they were.

Enthusiasm paid off as Central won all county games, the Northern EIC championship, and was runner-up in the Northern and Southern EIC play-off.

Outstanding pitchers were Larry Foreman and Clayton Strickler.

David Isch won the batting crown.

Larry Foreman makes a fast pitch which helped Central's squad win many games.

Clayton Strickler waits at first base to catch the ball that will make another out.

Claude Striker shows his batting form at the plate.

Finally Pay Off

Fred Mann warms up the bat while one of his teammates goes to the plate.

Joyous over victory, the teammates get together for a few laughs.

Dramatics Display Hidden Talents

The class of '59 presented "Come Over to Our House" for their junior class play. This three-act comedy depicts the story of a middle-aged widow who receives two marriage proposals. Her three children oppose the idea of their mother's marriage and confuse the plot with their own romances.

The children finally put their heads together at their grandmother's direct request and decide to give up their selfish ways in order to please their mother.

Miss Beihold puts make-up on Carol Helmrich to give her an elderly appearance.

Character, Leadership, Service, Scholarship

A chapter of the National Honor Society was established at Adams Central this year. The society is a national organization to create enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote worthy leadership and to encourage development of character in students of secondary schools.

A formal ceremony was held before the student body to induct the society's nineteen members.

Under the leadership of Miss Lucile Beavers, adviser; Larry Foreman, pres.; Tom Heyerly, v. pres.; Wanda Neuenschwander, sec.; and Jeanne Kaehr, treas. the society took part in several community projects such as the school's lost and found department.

OFFICERS: Jeanne Kaehr, treas., Tom Heyerly, v. pres., Larry Foreman, pres., Wanda Neuenschwander, sec.

Flash Blubs, Films Keep Cameras Clicking

David Haggard demonstrates various dark room procedures to Kay Singleton and Karen Stultz.

The photography club with eleven members and two sponsors learned the methods of picture developing and enlarging. Learning how to measure the correct distance for taking pictures plus other elements of picture taking also held new interest for club members.

Photographers were under the instruction of Mr. Feasel and Mr. Allspaw.

OFFICERS: Carolyn Yake, sec., Arlene Zimmerman, v. pres., Mary Dick, treas., Mabel Steffen, pres.

Students interested in displaying creative ability had the opportunity of joining the art club. One of the big projects of the club was decorating the large Christmas tree in the school lobby with very different ornaments made of straw and other very common materials.

Rifle Club Stresses Safety

The Rifle Club draws the interest of many of the boys at Central. The guns are examined and Mr. Collier shows how every precaution must be taken in handling a gun. Contrary to the old adage that boys shouldn't handle guns, in Rifle Club they are taught the proper way to handle them. Safety is their aim.

The REKAMEMOH CLUB with approximately 70 members watched demonstrations and sponsored a bake sale.

Rekamemoh — Homemaker

The Rekamemoh Club, derived from spelling homemaker backwards, was under the sponsorship of Mrs. Joyce Neilsen.

The club's purpose is to create a greater interest in homemaking among high school girls.

Projects of the club were a bake sale and a senior breakfast. Demonstrations on foods and homemaking were given at regular meetings.

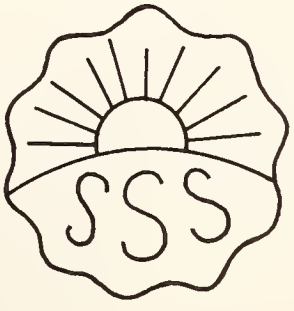
Sunshine Spells Service for Others

The Sunshine Society, composed of high school girls who have pledged themselves to make this a brighter world, was sponsored by Mrs. Rowena Stucky.

The girls presented a program at the Adams County Old People's Home. Selecting "ideal ladies" was another project of the society. Each girl selected one lady as her ideal. A letter sent to the lady, informed her that she had been chosen as an "ideal lady." A party was held to identify the ideal lady with the respective club member.

The most important social events of the year were a Mexican Christmas party and a sweetheart banquet.

The club has enriched the lives of everyone here at Adams Central but especially those girls who take part in giving happiness and kindness to others.



Archers Acquire Steady Hand

Archers developed a steady hand and an accurate aim in archery club this year.

The "Robin Hoods" under the sponsorship of Mr. Donald Sprunger and Mr. Kenneth Watkins held practice sessions and intra-club meets.
